does religion cause violent conflict asks chad m bauman and if so does it cause conflict more than other social identities through an extended history of christian hindu relations with particular attention to the 2007 2008 riots in kandhamal odisha anti christian violence in india examines religious violence and how it pertains to broader aspects of humanity is religious conflict sui generis or is it merely one species of intergroup conflict why and how might violence become an attractive option for religious actors what explains the increase in religious violence over the last twenty to thirty years integrating theories of anti christian violence focused on politics economics and proselytization anti christian violence in india additionally weaves in recent theory about globalization and in particular the forms of resistance against western secular modernity that globalization periodically helps to provoke with such theories in mind bauman explores the nature of anti christian violence in india contending that resistance to secular modernities is in fact an important but often overlooked reason behind hindu attacks on christians intensifying the widespread hindu tendency to think of religion in ethnic rather than universal terms the ideology of hindutva or hinduness explicitly rejects both the secular privatization of religion and the separability of religions from the communities that incubate them and so with provocative and original analysis bauman questions whether anti christian violence in contemporary india is really about religion in the narrowest sense or rather a manifestation of broader concerns among some hindus about the western sociopolitical order with which they associate global christianity this work is an attempt to critically assess the life and the theology of the small churches in india especially in the teluguspeaking land of andhra pradesh in the south for a close examination the author chose the bible mission which started as a break away group from his own church the andhra evangelical lutheran church the relationship of these small groups to the mission churches and their appeal to the non christians has been a much discussed subject in india in recent times indian national independence and church union in the church of south india both in 1947 demanded a rethinking on the part of the indian christians with regard to the mission of the church in india the meaning and methods of ministry and the role of theological education this book is a study of the quest for relevance in indian theological education during the period 1947 to 1987 this book studies concepts of mission such as the traditional evangelization and the modern participation in nation building ministry as changing from the domination of male clergy to the participation of the laity and women theological education as equipment of the whole church for wider involvement in indian society within the context of poverty and religious pluralism it deals with the four decades of thought development and indigenous experimentations simultaneously looking at the effect of the evangelical and ecumenical division of the church s understanding of her mission and ministry in india while studying several seminaries tamilnadu theological seminary is used as a case to illustrate the continuing process of the quest for relevance an extensive bibliography notes on people referred and a directory of theological colleges are additional
